

Aftercare supports following a suicide attempt

Free community support and services
Perth Metropolitan

Acknowledgments

The Suicide Prevention Coordinator program is funded by the Mental Health Commission of Western Australia and works within the community and with service providers to build the capacity to prevent and respond to suicide. Neami National is responsible for the Perth Metropolitan region and works with the Commission to deliver on the current state-wide suicide prevention strategy.

Thanks to all those who provided their ideas and feedback in the development of this resource. A special thanks to those in the RUAH Choices Program, CoMHWA, Safe Haven and the social work staff at Armadale Health Service that contributed.

This resource

This booklet is designed to support individuals discharged from the hospital, following an attempt on their life. It aims to inform and help navigate some of the key free supports and services that exist in Perth for those with a lived experience of suicidality. It also includes support for loved ones and carers.

Everyone’s recovery is different

There are many ways toward recovery. It might feel overwhelming to start, but engaging with the following supports may help you, or the person you are caring for, along the path to recovery.

- Learn about the crisis and support hotlines.
- Build your support system: Draw it out, and make sure you clarify with yourself whom you know you can turn to in difficult times.
- Learn more about mental health and your experience.
- Participate in community support programs and/or a peer-support group.
- Create a safety plan: with the support of your doctor, social worker and/or someone you trust (refer to Toolkits section).

This resource acknowledges the diverse needs of our community.

You can identify services led by, and designed for, the LGBTQIA+, Aboriginal and multicultural communities through the below icons.

Mental Health Crisis Diversion

If you or someone you know is at immediate risk of harm, attend the nearest Hospital Emergency Department or call 000. If you require support to divert a mental health crisis from occurring, the following services are available:

Safe Haven

A calm, gentle, quiet space where people can receive early intervention distress management and problem-solving support from both peer and clinical staff. The Safe Haven requires all people who self-present or are referred to Safe Haven to be willing and able to act in a safe and responsible manner on site.

Where: Victoria Square, opposite St Mary's Cathedral. Press the intercom on the door to enter. Open Friday to Sunday 3pm – 7.45pm

How: Self-referral walk-ins or referrals from Emergency Department, community-managed organisations and community mental health clinics.

Universal Aftercare Perth

Universal Aftercare provides free, non-clinical support to help improve safety, wellbeing and social connection following a suicidal crisis or attempt. Support is available for up to three months and includes developing a tailored plan and connecting people with relevant clinical and community services. This is an outreach service, with team members meeting people, and those supporting them, in a location of their choosing.

Universal Aftercare is available for people aged 16 years and over who have presented to Royal Perth Hospital, Fiona Stanley Hospital or Sir Charles Gairdner Hospital following a suicide attempt or suicidal crisis, and who are not currently accessing a similar community-based service.

Where: Royal Perth Hospital, Fiona Stanley Hospital or Sir Charles Gairdner Hospital

How: Hospital referrals from ED staff

Call: 08 6252 0420
